REDHAWKS-HOCKEY SCOUTING REPORT

Crushberg-Roseen looked up and down at the Montreal Meltdown. He played defense the entire tournament after switching from Forward to defense all season.

He plays with a lot of grit and he has a very good offensive flair. We really like the fact that he moves laterally on the blue line and he creates space. His vision is one of the best elements of his game and he has the skills with the puck to open up space.

He needs to simplify his game, among others he makes too many saucer passes. Sometimes he can be high risk and he takes too many chances defensively.

At this level it is not very expensive, but it is a habit that could slow down its progress to the next level. He will also have to gain physical maturity, not yet strong enough, but he has guts and he is not afraid of anything. He is a player who will interest some Tier 1 teams (QMJHL-USHL-NCAA), but he remains raw and he needs some polishing.
